

Hilary Hawkes Books

New from Robinswood Press

Hilary Hawkes Books – a new series of funny and exciting short adventures. Each story captures the author’s inimitable, off-beat style and is designed to encourage the enjoyment of reading for everyone. With an established background in writing stories for children and in early years literacy, Hilary Hawkes spins fast-moving, quirky tales in every day language, which even the most book-shy 8- to 10-year-old will find compulsive reading.

A Witch Called Rosa

Illustrated by Caroline Crossland

Rosa isn't just any old witch, she's the youngest member of the wackiest family of witches that ever moved into Bellway Street. Instead of broomsticks, Rosa's family fly by vacuum cleaner. And instead of a cat, Rosa's inseparable companion is her pet pig, Chipolata. When she introduces neighbours – Charlie and Polly – to her mixed up family, they find they're in the middle of their biggest mix up yet!

A Witch Called Rosa is a fast-moving adventure which builds to a nail-biting conclusion – bringing lots of enjoyment to all readers.

Twenty-Nil and other disasters

Illustrated by Mary Hall

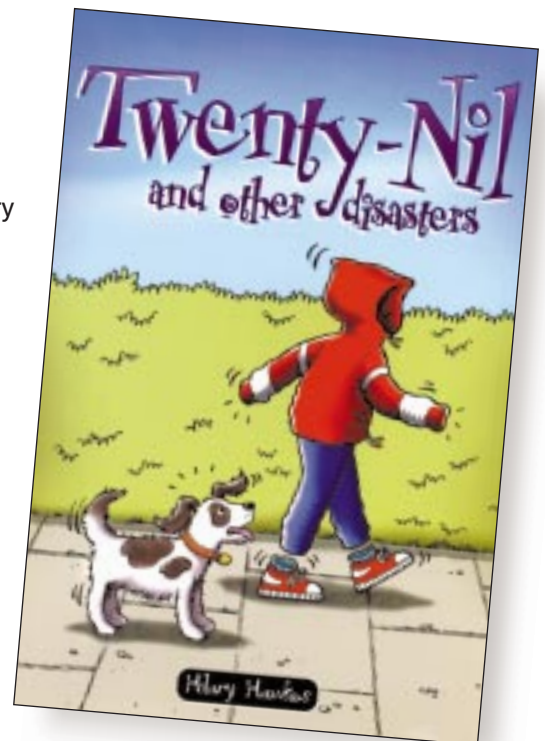

Breakfast is always chaotic in Jason's home. Not the best time to try and explain that you have started turning invisible overnight! The events of the rest of the day do not get any more sensible. Jason must rescue his best friend, George, from the clutches of the quiz-show-obsessed Dr Brillbot. Then there's his sister's football team, who desperately need a hand to avoid another disastrous result they are sure they are heading for that day. And all of this before teatime!

Twenty-Nil and Other Disasters is a hilarious oddball tale that sweeps the reader up on an irresistible roller-coaster adventure, right from page one.
